The image shows a black and white photograph of a church or small building, possibly a chapel, perched on a hill. The structure appears to be made of stone or brick, with a relatively simple design. The building is surrounded by greenery, indicating it might be located in a rural or semi-rural area. The photograph is likely intended to illustrate a discussion or description of the building or its historical significance. The context in the surrounding text is not provided, so the specific details or significance of the building are not known from the image alone.